Sonnzinn's first encounter with photography was in high school. It was a wedding photograph that he saw in Seoul. At that moment, he realized that photograph has the ability to not only capture happiness, but also create one.

After graduating from a science university and completing military service in Korea, he moved to Tokyo to study commercial photography while mastering Japanese skills. His still-life photography is visually powerful and dynamic. At the same time, his portrait picks up on the delicacy of facial expression.
